

Day in DC

Why is it important? To build relationships with regulators, legislators and other organizations in our field. It is also important for us to collaborate with them.

Thank you to Nicole Booth, Quicken Loans for her tireless volunteer efforts in organizing the Day in DC event.

Thank you also to Margo Tank, DLA Piper for playing host and providing office space to serve as the home base during the event.

Thank you for our volunteers: Ann Gunning, Kevin Park, Marc Aronson, Steve Bisbee, Nicole Booth, Margo Tank and Ken Moyle for participating in the meetings.

We met with regulators and other organizations:

Conference of State Bank Supervisors (CSBS)

Tim Doyle, Senior Vice President

Chamber of Digital Commerce

Amy Devin Kim, Global Policy Director and General Counsel

Small Business Administration – Office of Capital Access

William Manger, Associate Administrator; John Miller, Deputy Associate Administrator

Federal Communications Commission (FCC): Office of Chairman Pai Office

Nathan Leamer, Policy Advisor; Eric Burger, Chief Technology Officer

Mortgage Bankers Association

Rick Hill, Vice President, Industry Technology

National Highway Traffic Safety Administration

Brian Barnard, Director of Governmental Affairs, Policy, and Strategic Planning

Federal Trade Commission (FTC)

Elizabeth Kwok, Investigator, Division of Financial Practices